What are your guiding principles?

Freemasons use four important guiding principles to help define their path through life: integrity, friendship, respect and service.

In today's world filled with uncertainty, these principles ring as true as they have at any point in the organisation's history.

One of the oldest social and charitable organisations in the world, Freemasonry's roots lie in the traditions of the medieval stonemasons who built our cathedrals and castles.

"The first thing that struck me was how welcoming and friendly everybody was. I immediately felt like I was joining a new family. I knew that I had made the right decision to join the lodge and although I have only been a Freemason for a relatively short time, I can't imagine my life without it now!"

LEE
DEAN WATERFIELD LODGE

Membership is open to people from all backgrounds and the organisation's aim is to empower members to be the best they can be – it's about building character, supporting members as individuals, and helping them make a positive contribution to society.

"Freemasonry is so much more than a hobby, we join together socially on our motorcycles as well as in the temple, it's a way of life. Its core values guide me daily."

GORDON
VAGA LODGE

Freemasonry provides a structure for members to come together under these common goals, enabling people to make new friendships, develop themselves and make valuable contributions to charitable causes.

INTEGRITY:

Building good people

Rather than working on buildings like the masons of old, today's Freemasons focus on building themselves as people of integrity, and membership provides the structure to help achieve that goal.

"One of the important lessons I've learned from being a Freemason is that of having integrity. Freemasons have strong moral convictions, they are honest, trustworthy & very supportive of others, yet humble. An important characteristic trait we should all learn to live by."

IAN
DELPHIS LODGE

“Freemasonry is a collection of people from all walks of life who fit together. We as Freemasons do not find the easiest way to do things, we find the right way. When I joined, I was told that ‘Freemasonry takes good men and gives them the opportunity to make themselves better.’”

BRYAN
CANTILUPE LODGE

At an individual level, being a Freemason gives members a sense of purpose, supporting and guiding them on their journey through life. Collectively, members are bonded through a sense of unity and equitability – principles fundamental to Freemasonry.

THE HISTORY OF THE HANDSHAKE

Historically, stonemasons travelled from place to place to secure work. At this time, handshakes were commonly used as a means for stonemasons to identify themselves, proving their level of experience and indicating what position they held. Today, in recognition of this practice, handshakes are used ceremonially as a way of identifying the various levels within Freemasonry.

FRIENDSHIP:

Building together

One of the oldest social organisations in the world, Freemasonry is not defined by an ideology.

It is open to people from all religions and political persuasions, and provides the common foundation for friendships between members, many of which will last for life.

“For good men the most honourable fraternity of Freemasonry, has inspired improvement to the benefit of all mankind from time immemorial.”

DES
ROYAL EDWARD LODGE

Being a Freemason means something different to each person who joins, but whether looking to make acquaintances or develop their own potential, all members share a sense of togetherness that strengthens their ability to succeed and grow.

"Having joined Freemasonry in 2010, I never imagined how many friendships it would create, not only in my Province, but across the country, and even round the world. Visiting other Lodges, you meet new people who you soon feel you've known for years. Talk to us about joining - you really won't regret it!"

BUILDING FRIENDSHIPS FOR LIFE

From university schemes, to new masons clubs, to special interest Lodges, Freemasonry gives members many opportunities to make friends for life. Finding bonds with people who share common interests and meeting people from all different backgrounds are only some of the ways Freemasonry can help cultivate lasting friendships.

RESPECT:

Building unity

With a membership of more than 200,000 people drawn from communities across the UK, Freemasonry brings people together irrespective of their race, religion or any other perceived differences that can divide us as a society.

"Respect is a considered acknowledgement of a person's, or organisation's quality. Respect is not easily earned, and it is an incredibly special and unique accolade."

DEREK
LOYAL HAY LODGE

“My experiences in Freemasonry helps to encourage respect for others and integrity of actions in my day-to-day life.”

GETHIN
EASTNOR LODGE

Our members are proud to be Freemasons, and they are encouraged to talk openly about what the organisation does and what it means to be part of it.

FEMALE FREEMASONS

There are two female-only Grand Lodges, the Honourable Fraternity of Ancient Freemasons (HFAF) and the Order of Women Freemasons (OWF). The HFAF and OWF follow exactly the same ritual and wear the same regalia as male Freemasons – and they often work closely with community and charity projects.

Female Freemasons Annie Besant and Charlotte Despard were prominent figures in the push for universal suffrage in the early twentieth century. Besant was a British theosophist and women’s rights activist who also established the first UK lodge of the International Order of Co-Freemasonry (Le Droit Humain) in 1902. Despard, an Anglo-Irish suffragist, pacifist and novelist, was a founding member of various reformist organisations whose presence lives on today in the North London pub named in her honour.

SERVICE:

Building compassion

Whether participating in events, fundraising for a charitable cause or volunteering for public or community organisations, service is at the very heart of Freemasonry.

Our members make valuable contributions by donating time, resources and skills.

“Skill in applying Charity Funds to our Community is an attribute of local Freemasons. The charity of a Freemason takes many forms and I have witnessed the enthusiasm of lodge members throughout this Province when help for others is needed Herefordshire are united as a team, ready to give freely.”

DAVID

Individuals can make an important contribution at local, national and global level by giving both their time and money. Thanks to their efforts, Freemasonry is one of the largest charitable givers in the country, contributing more than £48m to deserving causes in 2018 alone. Freemasons don't only donate money – over 5 million hours of volunteer work was undertaken by Freemasons in 2018.

“Helping to support local charitable organisations makes me feel deeply connected to my community. I have seen first-hand how their work benefits those that it supports. The way that Freemasonry contributes locally gives me such a sense of pride and makes me feel that I’m making a difference.”

PAUL

FREEDOM OF THE CITY

In 1894, facing financial crisis, Manchester City Football Club was offered a helping hand by the Freemasons. In acknowledgement of the organisation's act of charity, the club adopted Masonic colours, giving them the light blue shirts that are so recognisable to football fans today.

Membership

Becoming a Freemason means you'll be joining more than 200,000 members throughout England and Wales as well as Districts overseas.

Membership is open to any man over the age of 18 irrespective of their race or religion, and women are invited to join one of two female-only Grand Lodges: The Order of Women Freemasons and the Honourable Fraternity of Ancient Freemasons.

In total, we have more than 7,000 Lodges, with students also able to join one of the 81 University Scheme Lodges.

"Freemasonry has allowed me to meet and socialise with a vast range of people from all walks of life. As an adult, when can you say you last made a new friend? Freemasonry has introduced me to many new friends and social activities."

TOMMY CAERULEUM CLUB
CHAIRMAN

Lodge meetings are typically held in two parts. The first involves more administrative procedures, such as proposing and balloting for new members and receiving news about charitable fundraising.

The second part focuses on ceremonies, which might relate to areas such as the admittance of new members or the installation of the Master of the Lodge and his officers – a process made up of three degrees, or stages, each one marked by a special ceremony.

True to the sense of friendship and togetherness among Freemasons, meetings are also social events, providing an occasion for members to dine together.

Outside of the Lodge, activities include community fundraising and volunteering activities as well as a varied programme of events where spouses, partners and families are welcome.

FINDING THE RIGHT FREEMASONRY FOR YOU

There are many specialist Lodges in Freemasonry; Lodge of XV No. 9944 in Essex, for example, is one of a vast number found throughout the country. The Lodge is for those who are also keen rugby fans. Other specialist lodges include a variety of sports, as well as motoring and young member lodges.
